#3. News title: Have you checked the status of your devices?

Date: 2nd September 2022

Description:

Electronic devices are an important part of our lives, especially as Canadians spend more time at home due to working from home and learning online. In fact, between 1990 and 2017, energy consumption for plug-in electronics and other small appliances increased by more than 200%. ENERGY STAR® certified electronic devices have special features that reduce power consumption in active or standby mode. So even if your purchases of electronic devices increase, your energy bills will remain the same! Switch to ENERGY STAR certified electronics to reduce your electricity bills and your carbon footprint.

#4. News title: The 4 best game consoles in 2022

Date: 15 August 2022

Description:

Xbox One X! Xbox One X displays native 4K HDR graphics. Aside from a fantastic memory issue accentuated by HDR support, the Microsoft console delivers on its promises with 4K HDR gaming and delivers a premium gaming experience.

PS4 Slim 500 GB! A versatile console, with an excellent catalog of AAA games, the PS4 Slim is better in almost every way than the original, with notable exceptions. In addition to a size reduction, this slim model drops its price compared to the original PS4.

PS4 Pro 1TB! Almost 3 years after its launch, the PS4 Pro is still an easy and recommended purchase for all newcomers to the world of PlayStation, early adopters of PlayStation VR and owners of 4K HDR TVs.

Nintendo Switch Lite – Turquoise! The Nintendo Switch Lite is the best truly portable games console you can find on the market. In fact, it's the only one, and it boasts a fantastic catalog of games. The dimensions of the console will not suit large hands.

#5. News title: PS5, Stock alerts, price, where to buy it and find it?

Date: 16 June 2022

Description:

Sony's PlayStation 5 has been available since November 19, 2020. We take stock of the Japanese console, which directly competes with Microsoft's Xbox Series X and Xbox Series S. Price, games, features, test, where to buy it, where to find it and how to activate stock alerts... here is everything you need to know about the product from the Japanese manufacturer and our advice.

#6. News title: The PlayStation 4 sold twice as well as the Xbox One

Date: 2 June 2022

Description:

The Xbox One sold less well than the PlayStation 4. The intuition of all market observers was confirmed by official statements from Microsoft, which conceded that Sony had won this round of the console war.

We knew that the Xbox One had been less successful than the PlayStation 4. On the other hand, if it was almost certain that Sony had won the war on the penultimate generation of console, we did not know exactly by what margin... Until now.

#7. News title: The Nintendo Switch, again victim of the shortage of components

Date: 20 July 2022

Description:

Despite rather encouraging results, Nintendo is still struggling to produce enough Switches to meet demand. Nintendo's hybrid console remains a victim of the industry's long shortage of components.

Semiconductors are always absent. Although the great shortage of components seems to be slowly abating in recent weeks, the situation is still not ideal and Nintendo is paying the price. In its latest quarterly results released on August 3, the Japanese company acknowledged that Switch sales were being held back not by lack of demand, but rather by lack of supply.

#8. News title: Discord voice chat is coming to Xbox consoles

Date: 25 June 2022

Description:

While Discord announced its partnership with Sony with great fanfare last year, it is ultimately Xbox players who will have the first voice chat on console. The feature is already rolling out for Xbox Insiders.

The announcement effects of one day are not necessarily the truths of the next day. Discord has just given us an edifying illustration of this: while the company proudly announced, in May 2021, a partnership with Sony aimed at bringing its very popular voicemail application to PlayStation 4 and 5, it was ultimately the Xbox consoles that will welcome him first.

#9. News title: Samsung promises to sell recent used smartphones rather than old models

Date: 12 June 2022

Description:

Samsung has announced that the “Refurbished by Samsung” section of its website will soon be more stocked with recent smartphones. The latter is indeed the poor relation of the South Korean giant's online sales site. However, it is not the interested customers who are lacking.

The Korean giant is determined to ride the refurbished wave. Currently, if you click on the “Refurbished by Samsung” section, you can, if you are quick or lucky, buy sometimes nice smartphones, but most often a little old and not very innovative, like of the Galaxy Note 20. The world leader in smartphones has reportedly declared that it intends to offer newer smartphones in its offer of refurbished phones (“Reconditioned by Samsung” or “Certified renewed” in English-speaking countries).

This is good news for customers, as not everyone will be able to afford the latest Samsung Galaxy S23 for the price of new. For these people, refurbished items are a good way to own a recent and powerful phone. Unlike a device that you would buy second-hand on a site for sale between individuals, devices reconditioned by the manufacturer (Samsung in this case) offer the same guarantees as new items. Thus, before being offered for sale on the website, smartphones refurbished by Samsung undergo more than a hundred checkpoints. If a component fails, it will be replaced. Even better, refurbished ones get a new battery, their OS is updated to the latest version, and they get a new IMEI. In other words, they really are like new.

#10. News title: Iphone 14: Very sharply rising prices on the French market?

Date: 30 April 2022

Description:

While in 2012, it was necessary to pay between 679 and 899 € to afford an iPhone 5, it is necessary for example to count between 809 and 1,839 € for an iPhone 13/13 Pro. The bad news for fans of the brand is that a new increase would be planned with the iPhone 14. The iPhone.fr site would indeed have discovered the new price list and it would hurt, very badly for the wallet:

The iPhone mini having disappeared from the catalog, we compared the access price of the iPhone 13 (909 €) with that of the next iPhone 14 (1,029 €). If we rely on the information shared by our colleagues, the increase from one year to the next would therefore be 13.2%. And we note that no model is accessible below the psychological bar of €1,000. Another example, a person who would be interested in an iPhone 14 Pro would now have to pay the sum of € 1,279, an increase of 10.3% compared to the iPhone 13 Pro.

The entry ticket to get an iPhone with a large screen, in this case an iPhone 14 Max, would reach €1,129, enough to make some users think twice before emptying the bank account.

The presentation of the iPhone 14 being scheduled for this Wednesday, September 7, we will quickly have all the details.

#11. News title: Galaxy S23: autonomy could increase slightly compared to the S22

Date: 1 January 2022

Description:

The next Samsung Galaxy S23s should arrive as soon as the beginning of 2023, but we already know that the smaller model should be slightly more autonomous than the previous generation.

A few weeks after learning that the next Galaxy S23 Ultra would keep the same battery as the Galaxy S22 Ultra, a new report from our Korean counterparts TheElec reveals what to expect for the battery of the classic Galaxy S23. According to them, the Galaxy S23, the smallest model in the series, could well see its autonomy increase.

We already know that the Galaxy S23 will be very similar to its predecessor, the Galaxy S22. Indeed, we will always find a 6.1-inch FHD+ (2340 x 1080 pixels) screen. The dimensions will however be slightly different, 146.3 x 70.9 x 7.6 mm for the Galaxy S23, against 146.0 x 70.6 x 7.6 mm for the Galaxy S22. Against all expectations, the bezels of the screen will increase by 0.15 mm, and these small differences should allow Samsung to revise the battery size upwards.

#12. News title: Galaxy A14, A34 and A54: Samsung is working on its future bestsellers, here is the first info

Date: 10 May 2022

Description:

The Galaxy A's are certainly not flashy, but this range represents Samsung's best value for money. It is thanks to these devices that the South Korean brand has become and remains the world's leading smartphone manufacturer. A brief overview of the future Galaxy A14, Galaxy A34 and Galaxy A54.

Samsung is known to be on par with Apple when it comes to high-performance and luxurious smartphones. The South Korean brand is renowned for the magnificent finish of devices such as the S22, Galaxy Z Fold 4 and other Galaxy Flips. That said, not everyone always has $1000+ to invest in these luxury phones. However, it is thanks to handsets with specifications that are certainly more modest, but with more than honorable performance, the famous mid-range, that the company has become the world's leading smartphone manufacturer.

According to the AndroidHeadlines site, the Asian giant is preparing the arrival of new phones in its series of affordable handsets, the Galaxy A. These are made up of smartphones aimed at a segment ranging from the entry in the middle range. Logically, the cheapest of all will be the Galaxy A14 5G. Unlike its direct predecessor, and as its name suggests, it will be 5G compatible, making it the brand's cheapest 5G ready smartphone next year. Nothing suggests that 5G will be optional on this model. The choice not to offer a "just 4G" A14 would be beneficial for mobile operators, who would like to convert customers to this new standard. The combination of cheap 5G mobile plans and affordable devices should help in this regard.

#13. News title: Samsung didn't learn from its mistakes with the Galaxy Note 7, its batteries exploding

Date: 1 October 2022

Description:

You thought that Samsung had solved its problems with exploding batteries? On the contrary, according to Youtuber Arun Maini, we have not finished hearing about the case. Indeed, after having alerted to the risk of explosion during the heat wave in the United Kingdom, its investigation reveals that many models of the manufacturer are in fact concerned.

It's a joke watch that is now part of the tech landscape: Samsung and smartphone batteries, this is a sometimes dubious association. It must be said that after the huge scandal caused by the repeated explosions of its Galaxy Note 7, the Korean manufacturer had a hard time restoring its image and regaining the trust of users. Then, after several years without any real incident, we thought the file was closed. At least, until now. At the end of July, Youtuber Arun Maini, better known as Mrwhosetheboss, tweeted about three of his old Samsung smartphones having exploded: a Galaxy S7, a Galaxy Note 8 and a Galaxy S10 5G. At the time, the latter thinks of the big heat wave which then affects the United Kingdom, which could explain this strange phenomenon. But there is a catch: among all its collection of smartphones, only the Samsung ones have exploded.
